

Dr. Mark Matthews

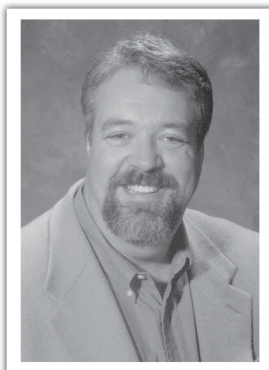

professor of Human Development and Gerontology, University of Kansas

Speaks to and answers questions regarding “Applied Behavior Analysis: Making a Difference in the Lives of Older Adults”

Tuesday, March 4

7:00 - 8:15 pm • FSU Panama City Auditorium

(Reception with Mark Matthews following)

Mark Matthews has a doctorate in developmental psychology. He is professor of Human Development and Gerontology at the University of Kansas. His research is designed to contribute to our understanding of factors that affect successful aging and application of that knowledge to social programs that optimize independence and autonomy. His work has been funded by the National Institute on Aging, the Alzheimer’s Association, the National Institute on Disability and Rehabilitation Research, as well as both public and private health services organizations.

Free and Open to the Public